Alumni Updates: December 2018

This month we feature some alumni who are also AMSC faculty or staff members.

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Kimberley Brooks '89, '15, '16 is the administrative secretary for Science, Math, & Health Professions and Humanities & Fine Arts. "My proudest achievement was graduating in 2016 with my bachelor of science degree after suffering through domestic violence, the death of my father, and being diagnosed with breast cancer," says Brooks. Outside of work, she enjoys photography, traveling, crafts, and spending time with family.

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Gloria Davis '07 is a library assistant who is working on a master's degree in education leadership from Georgia State University. She enjoys listening to gospel music, reading mystery novels, and participating in social activism. "Ultimately," says Davis. "I am a proud mother of two wonderful young boys, Jalen and Jacob."

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Christiana Emmanuel '15 is a research analyst in the Department of Institutional Effectiveness. "My proudest achievement was being able to blaze through the demands of being a fulltime housewife, mom, and student and walking up to the stage to get my bachelor's degree," says Emmanuel. In her spare time, she enjoys dancercising.

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Carolyn Harmon '96 is a library assistant and amateur photographer. "Through photography I have been able to capture a moment that will soon vanish and never be seen again," says Harmon.

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Dr. Deon O'Bryant '14 earned his doctorate from Clark Atlanta University where he conducted research on prostate cancer. This research was funded by a grant from the National Institute of Health. Dr. O'Bryant now teaches at AMSC.

BELIEVE • BEGIN • BECOME

Dr. Curtis Todd '98 is a professor of social work who regularly publishes nationally on social science topics. He is also a leader in the college's retention, progression, and graduation efforts.
