

AMSC's INAUGURAL "DAY AT THE CAPITOL"

AMSC faculty, staff, students, alumni and foundation board members participated in the Inaugural "AMSC Day at the Capitol" on Wednesday, March 18, 2015. The event marked a great opportunity for highlighting the best the Institution has to offer. "Helping to Lead Governor Deal's Complete College Georgia Initiative" served as the Institution's theme for the day. Lt. Governor Casey Cagle and several

AMSC supporting senators, in particular, Sen. Nan Orrock, District 36 and Sen. Vincent Fort, District 39, were present to acknowledge contributions of AMSC to the metropolitan community. President Gary McGaha greeted the Georgia General Assembly on the Senate and House floor and received an "Invite Resolution" in honor of AMSC and in recognition of the Institution's Day at the Capitol. AMSC students, Sarah Roberts and Alyssa Shields, also joined President McGaha during his presentation. Students from AMSC's STEM areas participated in the day's event through exceptional project and research displays from outstanding Biological Science students. Based on the positive feedback received, AMSC's Inaugural Day at the Capitol boasts an overwhelming success. Larion Williams, Vice President for Institutional Advancement at AMSC and organizer of the event, looks forward to making the annual program even bigger and better next year, and states, "Major assistance and support from many areas, including Student Activities, Student Access & Outreach, Student Affairs, TRIO, the Academic Support Center, Institutional Effectiveness, Academic Affairs, and Fiscal Affairs spotlight's our 'Day at the Capitol' as another AMSC Success."
