Atlanta Metropolitan State College and Clayton State University Sign Articulation Agreements

Atlanta, GA – Atlanta Metropolitan State College (AMSC) and Clayton State University (CSU), today, will enter into an articulation agreement between the AMSC School of Business & Technology and the CSU College of Business. This agreement will provide for the smooth transition of students from AMSC’s Bachelor of Business Administration program into CSU’s Master of Science in Strategic Leadership. AMSC’s students will be provided the minimum criteria needed for admission as well as the required courses needed to complete the degree. Further, Clayton State University will provide Atlanta Metropolitan State College students, access to graduate level advising and guide them through the necessary steps to design their course degree program.

This agreement highlights the collaboration and cooperation between these two important metro area USG institutions and strengthens the opportunities for students to further their education.

The opportunity that this agreement offers our students provides a very important pathway for a seamless entry into graduate education commented Dr. Georj Lewis, President of Atlanta Metropolitan State College. “Many of our students are first generation college. This collaboration continues the AMSC vision to activate the transformation of not just our students, but their families, and communities for generations.”

QUOTE FROM President Stewart CSU:

The opportunities these agreements provide are available to AMSC Bachelor of Business Administration students that meet the qualifications outlined in the agreements. Please contact the AMSC School of Business & Technology for additional details.
